

Bradley J. Van Pelt and Brittany M. Martinez discuss preparing for the issue of obviousness in inter partes reviews in Law360

Bradley J. Van Pelt and Brittany M. Martinez discuss how patent holders can prepare for the issue of obviousness in inter partes reviews in their Law360 Expert Analysis article, “Preparing for the Obvious at the PTAB.”

In the article, they say precedent indicates that the Patent Trial and Appeal Board is twice as likely to invalidate claims for obviousness than the district courts, and explore how this trend affects both patent owners and petitioners.

Please click here to read the article.

Posted: June 30, 2015