

PTAB Litigation

We have been routinely recognized as a leader in Patent Trial and Appeal Board (PTAB) practices, such as inter partes review (IPR). Our team has developed a successful approach to PTAB matters that allows us to maximize efficiency, value, and quality for our clients. Our advantage is that we assemble our IPR teams with attorneys and staff that collectively focus on all aspects of patent law, including both district court litigation and prosecution, and have the right technical background for the job at hand.

Our Capabilities

We understand the interplay between the different patent-related proceedings and venues because we have experience in all of them—from IPRs and interferences to district courts and the ITC. Since many IPRs have at least one other related proceeding and many will end up on appeal, it is important to have a firm that understands all of them. We do.

Our Team

We are a large intellectual property boutique with over 100 registered patent attorneys having various technical degrees and strong technical backgrounds. The firm also employs cost-effective support staff consisting of over 50 paralegals and support specialists, with specializations in litigation, preparation, and prosecution of utility and design patents around the globe. Our IPR teams are formed from these diverse attorneys and staff. As such, we offer a deep bench that can handle any PTAB litigation matter.

Our Experience

Our firm has handled over 400 PTAB proceedings since the PTAB's 2012 inception. We are one of the leading filers of IPR petitions. Our petitions are successful too. We have also successfully represented Patent Owners from the beginning. We were the first firm to obtain a full denial of institution of an IPR.
